Deliverance Prayer

Breaking With the Spirit of Lust

Scripture quoted from the World English Bible, divine name rendered YHWH, Elohim, and Adonai.

BEFORE YOU PRAY

Pray this out loud. You did not come into this silently and you do not come out of it silently. Words are how agreement is made and words are how agreement is broken.

This is not a formula, and the power is not in the page. It is in Yahshua, and in a heart that is done hiding. Go slowly. Where there is a blank, say the specific thing out loud. Where he brings something to mind that is not written here, stop and deal with that too. If you can, pray it with one trusted brother or sister who will pray and not gossip.

PART ONE

Coming Into the Light

Nothing hidden, nothing renamed, nothing softened.

Father YHWH, I come to you in the name of Yahshua. I am not hiding from you today and I am not managing the truth in front of you. You already see all of it, and you have loved me the whole time you have been looking at it.

I confess that I have taken a desire you made good and given it to what you did not give me. Specifically, I confess this before you: _____. I am not going to call it anything other than what you call it. I am not going to explain it, excuse it, or compare it to somebody else's sin to make it look smaller.

Search me, Elohim, and know my heart. Show me anything else I have been protecting, and I will bring that into the light too.

1 JOHN 1:9; PSALM 32:5; PSALM 139:23-24; PROVERBS 28:13

PART TWO

Renouncing the Agreement

Confession admits it. Renouncing breaks agreement with it.

In the name of Yahshua, I renounce the spirit of lust and every agreement I have made with it, whether I made it knowingly or in ignorance. I renounce it as a friend, as a comfort, as a way to cope, and as a place I went when I was lonely, bored, angry, or unseen.

I renounce every lie I believed underneath it: that I cannot be free, that this is just who I am, that I need it, that nobody would love me if they knew. I break agreement with all of it now.

I renounce every image, every fantasy, and every scene I have replayed in my mind. I renounce every soul tie formed outside your covenant, with anyone, in person or on a screen, and I ask you to sever what was never meant to be joined and to return to me what was mine.

You have no claim on me, no ground in me, and no say over me. I belong to Yahshua, who bought me with his own blood.

JAMES 4:7-8; 2 CORINTHIANS 10:3-5; 1 CORINTHIANS 6:16-20

PART THREE

Closing the Doors

Name the access points out loud. Ground is taken back door by door.

Father, I take responsibility for the doors I opened. What I chose to watch, what I chose to click, what I chose to keep, what I chose to excuse, and the hours I chose to spend alone with it.

I take responsibility for the doors I left standing open through anger I would not release, wounds I nursed, and unforgiveness I called wisdom. I close every one of them now in the name of Yahshua and by his blood.

I ask you to show me anything I still need to cut off, delete, hand over, or walk away from. Whatever it is, I will do it. I am not negotiating with this anymore.

I also renounce anything that came down my family line, any pattern that was handed to me before I could choose, and any covenant my ancestors made that I never agreed to. It stops with me, in the name of Yahshua.

EPHESIANS 4:26-27; MATTHEW 5:29-30; ROMANS 13:14

PART FOUR

Forgiving and Being Forgiven

This is the step most people skip, and it is the one holding the door.

Father, I forgive the people who wounded me, the ones who took something from me, and the ones who first put this in front of me before I even knew what it was. I name them now:

_____ .

I release them fully. I am not holding this over them and I am not waiting for an apology to let it go. I hand the whole account to you and I will not pick it back up.

I receive your forgiveness, and I forgive myself, because you have already washed me. I will not keep calling dirty what you have called clean, and I will not keep dragging into today what you have moved into the past.

Pride is what kept me holding this, and pride is what kept me hiding. I humble myself before you now and I ask you for grace.

MATTHEW 6:14-15; EPHESIANS 4:31-32; JAMES 4:6-10; MARK 11:25

PART FIVE

Making It Right

Deliverance that costs you nothing usually changes nothing.

Father, where this has wounded someone else, I am not going to hide behind your forgiveness and leave them carrying it. Give me the humility to go to them, to name what I did without excuse, and to ask their forgiveness without demanding it.

Give me wisdom in how I say it, so that I am seeking their healing and not just relief for my own conscience. Where restitution is owed, show me and I will pay it. Where trust was broken, give me the patience to rebuild it slowly instead of demanding it back.

Guard my wife, my husband, my children, and my house from what I let in. Undo the damage I cannot undo.

MATTHEW 5:23-24; LUKE 19:8; ROMANS 12:18

PART SIX

Cleansing, Covering, and Filling

The house does not stay empty. Ask him to fill it.

Yahshua, wash me. Wash my eyes, my mind, my memory, my hands, and my heart with water by the word. Cover me with your blood. Blot out what has been written on my mind and give me back a clean imagination.

Fill every place this used to occupy with your Ruach, so it does not sit swept and empty. Where the appetite was, put hunger for you. Where the restlessness was, put your peace. Where the secrecy was, put the light.

Renew my mind. Teach me to set my eyes on what is true, honorable, pure, and lovely, and to walk in the Spirit so that I do not fulfill the desires of the flesh.

Give me a covenant with my eyes, and the strength to keep it today, and then tomorrow, and then the day after that.

EPHESIANS 5:26; MATTHEW 12:43-45; ROMANS 12:1-2; JOB 31:1; GALATIANS 5:16

PART SEVEN

Standing in Who I Am

Say these out loud. This is not positive thinking, it is agreement with him.

I am washed. I am sanctified. I am justified in the name of Adonai Yahshua and in the Spirit of our Elohim.

There is no condemnation for me, because I am in Messiah Yahshua. I am a new creation. The old is gone.

Whom the Son sets free is free indeed. I am not what I did. I am his, and I am walking in the light with him from here.

If I stumble, I will come back into the light the same day instead of hiding. I will not let the accuser use one fall to talk me out of what you settled at the cross.

Thank you, Father. Thank you for conviction that draws instead of condemns. Thank you for not being ashamed of me. In the name of Yahshua, amen.

1 CORINTHIANS 6:11; ROMANS 8:1; 2 CORINTHIANS 5:17; JOHN 8:36

KEEP A RECORD

The Day You Renounced It

The enemy will try to talk you out of this later. Write it down now so you have something to point at when he does.

ONE MORE THING

Do not carry this alone. Tell one person you trust today, and ask them to pray with you and to check on you. Secrecy is what kept this alive, and walking in the light with someone is how it stays dead.
