

THE SEVENTH DAY

Why the Sabbath Was Never Done Away With, and Was Never Moved

A printable teaching handout. Scripture quoted from the World English Bible with the Names restored: YHWH, Yahshua, Elohim. Torah is referred to throughout as instructions, which is what the word means.

There is no verse in Scripture that abolishes the Sabbath. There is no verse that moves it to the first day of the week. What exists is a handful of passages stretched to imply it, and a well documented history of men who changed it on their own authority.

WHAT THIS HANDOUT COVERS

- The Sabbath was set apart at creation, roughly two thousand years before Abraham.
- It was already being kept before Sinai, and YHWH rebuked Israel for breaking it before it was ever given at the mountain.
- It is the only commandment of the ten that is treated as optional today, though it was written on the same stone by the same finger.
- Yahshua kept it His whole life, called Himself its Lord, and expected His followers to still be keeping it long after His death.
- The apostles kept it for decades after the resurrection, with Gentiles gathered alongside them.
- Scripture says it is still being kept in the new heavens and the new earth.
- Every passage used to abolish it, answered one at a time.
- All eight first day verses in the Renewed Covenant, examined.
- Where the change actually came from, in the documented record.

PART I

It Began at Creation, Before Israel Existed

Before there was a Jew, before there was a Hebrew, before there was a covenant at Sinai, before a single instruction was given to Moses, there was a seventh day.

Genesis 2:1-3

“On the seventh day God finished his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made. God blessed the seventh day, and made it holy, because he rested in it from all his work of creation which he had done.”

Three actions are taken on that day, and they are taken on nothing else in the creation week. He rested in it. He blessed it. He made it holy, which means He set it apart. He blessed the sea creatures and He blessed mankind, but only one thing in time itself is sanctified. He placed a holy day inside the week the same way He would later place a holy place inside the land.

If the Sabbath is only a Jewish institution, why is it in the garden roughly two thousand years before Abraham was born?

Yahshua Himself settles who it was made for.

Mark 2:27

“The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath.”

It was made. Made when? Genesis 2. Made for whom? Man. Adam. Humanity. That is the entire species, not one nation out of it.

PART II

It Was Already Known Before Sinai

It is commonly taught that the Sabbath began at Mount Sinai. Scripture says otherwise. Israel was keeping it in the wilderness before they ever reached the mountain.

In Exodus 16:22-30, the manna falls. On the sixth day the people gather double. Moses tells them that the following day is a solemn rest, a holy Sabbath to YHWH. Some go out to gather anyway. Then comes the rebuke.

Exodus 16:28

“YHWH said to Moses, ‘How long do you refuse to keep my commandments and my laws?’”

This is Exodus 16. Sinai does not happen until Exodus 20. YHWH is rebuking Israel for breaking a commandment that, by the common teaching, had not been given yet. You cannot break a command that does not exist.

Exodus 16 is not the institution of the Sabbath. It is the reminder of it after four hundred years in Egypt. That is precisely why the Fourth Commandment opens with a word that no other commandment opens with.

PART III

He Wrote It With His Own Finger

Exodus 20:8-11

“Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. You shall labor six days, and do all your work, but the seventh day is a Sabbath to YHWH your God. You shall not do any work in it, you, nor your son, nor your daughter, your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your livestock, nor your stranger who is within your gates; for in six days YHWH made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested the seventh day; therefore YHWH blessed the Sabbath day, and made it holy.”

- Remember. Not begin. Not start. You remember something that already exists.
- The reason given is creation, not Israel. The Fourth Commandment grounds itself in Genesis 2, which is why it cannot be a temporary national ordinance. Its foundation is the making of the world.
- It is the longest of the ten, and the only one that identifies who YHWH is by what He made. It functions as the seal on the covenant.

Deuteronomy 5:12-15 repeats the ten and adds a second reason, the deliverance from Egypt. Two grounds are given: He made you, and He redeemed you. Both still apply to every person reading this.

Exodus 31:18

“He gave to Moses ... two tablets of the testimony, stone tablets, written with God’s finger.”

Nine of these ten are preached without hesitation in nearly every congregation in the country. Do not murder. Do not steal. Do not commit adultery. Do not take His name in vain. Honor your father and mother. No one stands in a pulpit and argues that the commandment against idolatry was nailed to the cross.

Which finger of YHWH wrote the nine that stayed, and which finger wrote the one that was removed? It was the same finger, the same stone, the same moment, the same covenant.

PART IV

A Sign, and Called Perpetual

Exodus 31:16-17

“The children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant. It is a sign between me and the children of Israel forever.”

A sign. Not a suggestion and not a shadow of a festival. In the same way tzitzit are a visible sign worn on the body, the Sabbath is a sign placed in time. It marks who you belong to. And the words used are not soft ones: perpetual, forever, throughout their generations.

Ezekiel 20:12

“Moreover also I gave them my Sabbaths, to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am YHWH who sanctifies them.”

Ezekiel 20:20 repeats it. The Sabbath is how a person knows who sanctifies them. That is not ceremony. That is identity. Which is exactly why the enemy of your soul would want it removed.

PART V

It Was Never for Israel Alone

This is the objection you will hear most often, and Scripture answers it directly. The commandment itself, in Exodus 20:10, includes the stranger within your gates. The foreigner living among them rests as well.

Isaiah 56:6-7

“Also the foreigners who join themselves to YHWH, to serve him, and to love YHWH’s name, to be his servants, everyone who keeps the Sabbath from profaning it, and holds fast my covenant: I will bring these to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer ... for my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.”

Read the verses just before it. YHWH names the exact fear the foreigner carries, that he will be separated from His people, and He answers that fear with the Sabbath.

In Isaiah 56 the Sabbath is not the wall that keeps the nations out. It is the door that brings them in.

This is also the chapter Yahshua quotes when He cleanses the temple in Matthew 21:13. He knew this passage well.

Isaiah 58:13-14

“If you turn away your foot from the Sabbath, from doing your pleasure on my holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight ... then you shall delight yourself in YHWH.”

A delight. Not a burden. That one word corrects most of what people assume this day is.

PART VI

Yahshua Kept It, and Taught It

If the Sabbath were going to be moved or cancelled, the ministry of the Messiah is where it would have happened. It did not.

Luke 4:16

“He came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up. He entered, as was his custom, into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up to read.”

As was his custom. This was His lifelong, normal pattern. The one we are told to imitate did not have a Sunday.

Mark 2:28

“Therefore the Son of Man is lord even of the Sabbath.”

This verse is used to argue that He abolished it. He said the opposite. A man is not lord of something he deleted. He is Lord of the Sabbath, which means it is His day. If the seventh day is His day, whose day is the first?

Matthew 5:17-19

“Don’t think that I came to destroy the law or the prophets. I didn’t come to destroy, but to fulfill. For most certainly, I tell you, until heaven and earth pass away, not even one smallest letter or one tiny pen stroke shall in any way pass away from the law, until all things are accomplished. Whoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments and shall teach others to do so, shall be called least in the Kingdom of Heaven.”

- Heaven and earth are still here. Look outside.
- He said not one stroke of a pen. The Sabbath commandment is ninety four words in English. That is considerably more than a pen stroke.
- He specifically warned about teaching others to break the least of them. The Sabbath is not the least. It is one of the ten.

Matthew 24:20

“Pray that your flight will not be in the winter, nor on a Sabbath.”

Here Yahshua describes events unfolding decades and centuries after His death and resurrection, and He still assumes His followers are keeping the Sabbath. If it were about to be abolished at the cross, the instruction is meaningless.

Luke 23:56

“They returned and prepared spices and ointments. On the Sabbath they rested according to the commandment.”

The people closest to Him, who had followed Him to the execution and to the tomb, rested on the Sabbath according to the commandment. No one had told them anything changed, because nothing had. Notice what the Gospel writer still calls it: the commandment.

There were two Sabbaths that week

This passage is often read through a Friday crucifixion, which flattens the week and hides something important. The Sabbath that began at the burial was not the weekly one.

John 19:31

“Therefore the Jews, because it was the Preparation Day, so that the bodies wouldn’t remain on the cross on the Sabbath (for that Sabbath was a high day) ...”

A high day. That is an annual Sabbath, the first day of Unleavened Bread, commanded in Leviticus 23:6-7 as a holy convocation on which no regular work is done. It falls on whatever weekday the calendar puts it, independent of the seventh day.

Now put two verses side by side, because together they cannot fit into one Sabbath. Mark 16:1 says that when the Sabbath was past, the women bought spices. Luke 23:56 says they prepared spices and then rested on the Sabbath. Buying comes after a Sabbath. Resting comes after the preparing. You cannot buy after the Sabbath and also rest after the preparing unless there are two Sabbaths with a working day between them.

The high Sabbath of Unleavened Bread came first. A working day followed, on which the women bought and prepared the spices. Then came the weekly seventh day Sabbath, and on that one they rested according to the commandment. Two Sabbaths, one week.

This is also what makes the sign He gave possible. He said the only sign given would be the sign of Jonah, three days and three nights in the heart of the earth (Matthew 12:40). A Wednesday evening burial to the close of the weekly Sabbath is three full days and three full nights. A Friday afternoon burial cannot produce three nights no matter how the hours are counted.

And it puts the empty tomb exactly where the calendar says it belongs. Leviticus 23:10-11 sets the wave sheaf of firstfruits on the day after the Sabbath, and Paul says Messiah has been raised as the firstfruits of those who are asleep (1 Corinthians 15:20). The women come while it is still dark on the first day and find the stone already rolled away and the tomb already empty (John 20:1).

For this teaching the point is simple. Even in the week of the crucifixion, with an annual high Sabbath already observed, the seventh day Sabbath was still kept, and Scripture still calls it the commandment.

Every conflict Yahshua had over the Sabbath was with man made rules about the day, never with the day itself. He healed on it. He picked grain on it. He declared it lawful to do good on it in Matthew 12:12. He was correcting how it was kept, not whether it was kept. If your Sabbath teaching becomes a burden of rules, you have made the exact error He was fighting.

PART VII

The Disciples Kept It After the Resurrection

If the day changed at the cross, the book of Acts is the wrong book to have in your Bible.

Passage	What it records
Acts 13:14	Paul and Barnabas go into the synagogue on the Sabbath day.
Acts 13:42-44	Gentiles beg to hear these words again. Paul tells them the next Sabbath, and they wait a full week. Then almost the whole city gathers on the Sabbath.
Acts 16:13	In Philippi there is no synagogue. Paul keeps the Sabbath anyway, outside the city by a river.
Acts 17:2	"Paul, as was his custom, went in to them, and for three Sabbaths reasoned with them from the Scriptures." The same phrase used of Yahshua in Luke 4:16.
Acts 18:4, 11	He reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, persuading Jews and Greeks, and stayed a year and six months. That is roughly seventy eight consecutive Sabbaths with a mixed congregation.

Passage	What it records
Acts 21:20-24	About twenty five years after the resurrection, James states that the rumor Paul teaches against Torah is not true, and has Paul prove it publicly.
Acts 24:14	"I serve the God of our fathers, believing all things which are according to the law, and which are written in the prophets."
Acts 25:8	"Neither against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Caesar, have I sinned at all."
Acts 28:17	"I had done nothing against the people, or the customs of our fathers."

Acts 13:42-44 is the moment that settles it. Paul has a room full of brand new Gentile believers asking him when to come back. If the day of assembly had been moved to the first day of the week, this is where he says so. He does not. He tells them next Sabbath, and they wait seven days.

PART VIII

It Is Still Being Kept After This Age Ends

Isaiah 66:22-23

"For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, shall remain before me," says YHWH, "so your offspring and your name shall remain. It shall happen that from one new moon to another, and from one Sabbath to another, all flesh will come to worship before me," says YHWH.

- New heavens and new earth. After everything. After the restoration.
- All flesh. Not one nation. Every nation.
- And they are keeping the Sabbath.

A shadow that was supposedly fulfilled and discarded does not reappear in eternity. In Ezekiel's temple vision the Sabbath is likewise observed, the east gate is opened on it, and the people worship at that gate (Ezekiel 44:24; 45:17; 46:1-3).

Hebrews 4:9-10

"There remains therefore a Sabbath rest for the people of God. For he who has entered into his rest has himself also rested from his works, as God did from his."

The Greek word in verse 9 is sabbatismos, and it occurs nowhere else in the Renewed Covenant. It literally means a Sabbath keeping. The writer, addressing believers, says one remains. Not was. Not used to be. Remains. The rest we enter in Messiah does not cancel the day, it fills it with meaning.

PART IX

The Passages Used to Say It Was Done Away With

Before working through them, notice what does not exist. There is no verse that says the Sabbath is abolished. There is no verse that says the seventh day is no longer holy. There is no verse that says to assemble on the first day instead. What exists is a handful of passages stretched to imply it.

Colossians 2:16-17

The claim: Paul says the Sabbath no longer matters.

- Paul says do not let anyone judge you for keeping them. He is defending the observers, not the abstainers. If no one in Colossae had been keeping these days, there would have been nothing to be judged for.
- Feast, new moon, and Sabbath is a standard Hebrew phrase for the whole worship calendar. See 1 Chronicles 23:31, 2 Chronicles 2:4 and 31:3, Nehemiah 10:33, Ezekiel 45:17. Paul is quoting Scripture, not cancelling it.
- “Are a shadow” is present tense. A shadow proves a body exists. You do not discard the shadow that points to Messiah.
- Verses 8 and 22 name the actual problem: the tradition of men, and the commandments and teachings of men. The issue in Colossae was human philosophy, asceticism, and angel worship in verse 18, not Torah.

Romans 14:5-6

The claim: Every believer may choose whichever day he prefers.

- The chapter is about eating and fasting. Read verses 2, 3, 6, 14, 15, 17 and 21. It concerns meat, vegetables, and wine, in a congregation with weak and strong consciences.
- The Sabbath is never mentioned in the chapter. Not once. It has to be imported.
- The days most likely in view are voluntary fast days. Nothing here overturns a commandment written in stone that Paul himself kept every week in Acts 17 and 18. Paul does not contradict Paul.

Galatians 4:9-11

The claim: Paul rebukes them for keeping the appointed times.

- Verse 8 identifies the audience: when they did not know God they were in bondage to those who by nature are not gods. These were pagan Gentiles. Paul describes what they are turning back to, and you cannot turn back to something you were never in. They had never been Sabbath keepers.
- The days, months, seasons and years in view are the pagan calendar and the elemental spirits, not YHWH’s appointed times.
- The entire letter concerns circumcision as a means of salvation. See 5:2-4 and 6:12-13. It is a justification argument, not a calendar argument.

2 Corinthians 3 and Hebrews 8

The claim: The old covenant is obsolete, so the Sabbath is obsolete.

- The renewed covenant is defined in Jeremiah 31:33 and quoted in Hebrews 8:10: “I will put my laws into their mind, I will also write them on their heart.” The same instructions, moved from stone to heart. The renewed covenant is not the removal of His instructions. It is the internalizing of them.
- What faded in 2 Corinthians 3 was the glory on the face of Moses and the ministration of condemnation, not the definition of righteousness.
- If the renewed covenant deleted the commandments, then adultery and murder are permitted as well. No one actually believes this.

“We are under grace, not law”

Passage	What it says
Romans 6:1-2	Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? May it never be.
Romans 3:31	Do we nullify the law through faith? May it never be. We establish the law.
Romans 7:12	The law is holy, and the commandment holy, righteous, and good.
1 John 2:3-4	One who says he knows him and does not keep his commandments is a liar.
1 John 5:3	This is loving God, that we keep his commandments, and they are not grievous.
Revelation 14:12	Here is the perseverance of the saints, those who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Yahshua.
Revelation 12:17	The dragon makes war with those who keep God's commandments and hold the testimony of Yahshua.

Grace is what saves us. Obedience is what love looks like afterward. We do not keep the seventh day in order to be redeemed. We keep it because we have been redeemed, and this is what our Redeemer said He wanted.

PART X

All Eight First Day Verses, Examined

There are exactly eight verses in the entire Renewed Covenant that mention the first day of the week. Six describe the same single morning. Not one commands worship on that day.

Verse	What it actually is
Matthew 28:1	Empty tomb discovery on the first day. The women find the stone already rolled away and the tomb already empty. It records the discovery, not the moment of the rising. No change of day.
Mark 16:2	Empty tomb discovery on the first day. The women find the stone already rolled away and the tomb already empty. It records the discovery, not the moment of the rising. No change of day.
Mark 16:9	A summary statement about the first day appearances. Even here the day is narrative, not instruction. No change of day.
Luke 24:1	Empty tomb discovery on the first day. The women find the stone already rolled away and the tomb already empty. It records the discovery, not the moment of the rising. No change of day.
John 20:1	Empty tomb discovery on the first day. The women find the stone already rolled away and the tomb already empty. It records the discovery, not the moment of the rising. No change of day.
John 20:19	The evening of the first day. The disciples are gathered with the doors locked "for fear of the Jews." A frightened group hiding, not a worship service establishing a new day.
Acts 20:7	The strongest verse anyone has. Paul is departing in the morning, preaches until midnight, Eutychus falls, Paul raises him, and they talk until daybreak. Reckoned evening to evening, this begins Saturday night at the close of Sabbath. It is a farewell gathering for a departing apostle, and breaking bread happened daily anyway per Acts 2:46.
1 Corinthians 16:1-2	A private setting aside of money at home for the famine relief in Jerusalem, so no collections are needed when Paul arrives. The text says each one by himself. No assembly, no service, no worship mentioned.

Verse	What it actually is
Revelation 1:10	“The Lord’s day.” Nothing in the verse says the first day. We already know from Yahshua which day He claimed as His: “The Son of Man is lord even of the Sabbath.”

Eight verses. Zero commands. Zero changes.

PART XI

Where Sunday Actually Came From

Since Scripture does not move the day, something else did. And the institution that made the change does not deny it. It is stated plainly in their own official teaching.

Catechism of the Catholic Church, 2175 and 2190

Paragraph 2175 states that Sunday is expressly distinguished from the sabbath which it follows chronologically every week, and that for Christians its ceremonial observance replaces that of the sabbath. Paragraph 2190 states that the sabbath, which represented the completion of the first creation, has been replaced by Sunday.

Read those carefully. They are not claiming Scripture moved the day. They are stating that the practice of the Church replaced it. Both paragraphs can be read directly on vatican.va, which is exactly why these are the two citations to use. Always use the source a person can verify for themselves.

Constantine’s edict, March 7, 321 AD

The first civil law making the first day a rest day across the Roman Empire came from the emperor, not from Scripture. It commanded that judges, city people, and all workshops rest on the venerable day of the Sun, while permitting farm work to continue. The law does not call it the Lord's day. It calls it the day of the Sun, the solar terminology of Rome, dies Solis, from Sol Invictus. Constantine at that time still held the office of Pontifex Maximus, high priest of Rome's traditional religion.

The Council of Laodicea, Canon 29, around 364 AD

This canon instructed that Christians should not rest on the Sabbath in the manner of the Jews, but should work that day and honor the Lord's day instead, and stated that those who persisted in resting on the Sabbath were to be cut off from Messiah.

This is the hinge. It does not merely promote one day. It forbids the seventh and threatens those who keep it. You do not need a law against something no one is doing. Canon 29 is proof that believers were still resting on the seventh day three hundred years after the resurrection, and had to be legislated out of it.

Daniel 7:25

“He shall speak words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High. He shall plan to change the times and the law.”

Mark 7:7-9

“In vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commandments of men ... You set aside the commandment of God, that you may keep your tradition.”

PART XII

Answering the Pushback Honestly

“First day gatherings existed before Constantine.”

They did, and it does not touch the argument, because gathering is not resting. Do not let anyone slide those two together. They are different things, and the early record keeps them separate.

- Justin Martyr, around 150 AD, describes an assembly on the day of the sun. People coming together to read, pray, and share a meal. He does not describe anyone ceasing from labor, and he does not call it a Sabbath. No one in that era did.
- Pliny the Younger, writing to Trajan around 112 AD, describes Christians meeting on a fixed day before daylight and then dispersing to their ordinary business. You meet before work, then you go to work. That is a meeting scheduled around a work day, not a day of rest.
- The commandment is not “attend a service.” The commandment is cease from your labor and keep the day holy. The early believers gathered constantly, daily according to Acts 2:46, and none of it was ever a substitute for the seventh day.

And here is the proof they were doing both for centuries. Socrates Scholasticus, writing in the fifth century, records that almost all churches throughout the world were still assembling on the Sabbath every week, and that Alexandria and Rome had ceased to do so on account of some ancient tradition. Sozomen, writing around the same period, says the people of Constantinople and almost everywhere assembled on the Sabbath as well as on the first day, and that this was never the custom at Rome or Alexandria. (Socrates, Ecclesiastical History 5.22; Sozomen, Ecclesiastical History 7.19)

Four hundred years after the resurrection, most of the Christian world was still keeping the seventh day. Two cities were not: Rome and Alexandria. The historians who report it treat those two as the exception, not the rule.

So the timeline is clean.

- First day gatherings appear early, and take nothing away from the seventh day.
- The first law transferring rest to the first day is Constantine’s, March 7, 321.
- The first church law forbidding the Sabbath rest is Laodicea, Canon 29, around 364.
- Most of the world kept both into the fifth century, until Rome’s practice was imposed.

No one stopped resting on the seventh day because Scripture told them to. They stopped because they were legislated out of it, and it took centuries of pressure to finish the job.

Where critics do have a foothold

Two early writings, Ignatius in his letter to the Magnesians around 110 AD and the Epistle of Barnabas around 130 AD, use language about no longer sabbatizing. Handle them honestly. Barnabas is anonymous, was never received as Scripture, and is full of allegory no one today defends. In the Ignatius passage the Greek does not actually contain the word day. It reads as living according to the Lord's, and translators supply day to make it read "the Lord's day." Verify it yourself before saying it publicly. Even taken at their worst, these are two men writing after the apostles were gone, with no authority to unholy what YHWH made holy.

No apostle, no prophet, and no word from Yahshua ever authorized the change. Every source for it is post apostolic and human. Trace it back as far as you like, you will never arrive at a "thus says YHWH."

"You are being legalistic."

Answer this one from the heart rather than the argument. We are not saved by a day. We are saved by the blood of Yahshua. We keep the day because we love Him, and because He said it was holy and no man has the authority to unholy it. Isaiah 58 calls it a delight. Mark 2 says it was made for man, as a gift. A gift is not legalism.

PART XIII

How to Actually Keep It

Do not turn this into a rulebook. That is the exact error Yahshua rebuked.

Practice	Where it is written
When. Sunset to sunset. Friday evening to Saturday evening.	Genesis 1:5; Leviticus 23:32
Prepare ahead. The sixth day is preparation day. Cook, clean, run the errands. The peace of the day is built the day before.	Exodus 16:23
Rest from your work, not from doing good. He healed on it and called it lawful to do good on it.	Exodus 20:9-10; Matthew 12:12
Make it holy, which means set apart. It should not look like Tuesday. Word, prayer, worship, family, rest.	Exodus 20:8
Gather. A holy convocation is a called assembly. Even if it is only your household around the table.	Leviticus 23:3; Hebrews 10:25
Call it a delight. Good food, no work talk, no arguing. If your children grow up dreading it, something has gone wrong in how you keep it, not in the day.	Isaiah 58:13
Walk in mercy. If someone in your life does not see this yet, love them. Do not weaponize the day.	Micah 6:8; Romans 14:4

IN CLOSING

The Case in One Place

- He made the day, blessed the day, and set the day apart, before any nation existed.
- He wrote it in stone with His own finger, alongside the nine no one questions.
- He called it a sign forever, and the mark of who sanctifies you.
- His Son kept it His whole life and called Himself its Lord.
- His disciples kept it for decades after the resurrection, with Gentiles beside them.

- The prophets say all flesh will keep it in the new heavens and the new earth.
- Hebrews says a Sabbath keeping remains for the people of God.

And nowhere, in a single verse, does He ever say to stop. Men changed it. Men do not have that authority.

Rest is not a burden He laid on you. It is a gift He gave you before you ever existed, and a sign of whose you are. It is a weekly appointment with your Creator that He wrote into time itself.

Come home to the seventh day.
